THE NEW WATER COMMISSION

SIMMONS, SHAW AND CHADWICK
NAMED BY THE MAYOR.

They'll Not Give Up Their Private Business to Serve the City—At Least Not Right Away—First Work Will Be to Appoint an Engineering and Office Staff.

Mayor McEllan appointed yesterday these men to make up the commission authorized by the Legislature at the last session to provide additional water supplies for this city:

J. Edward Simmons, president of the Fourth National Bank, representing the Chamber of Commerce.

Charles A. Shaw, president of the Hanover Fire Insurance Company, representing the Board of Fire Underwriters.

Charles N. Chadwick, president of the Charles N. Chadwick Manufacturing Company of Brooklyn, representing the Manufacturers' Association of Brooklyn.

When the Mayor sent to Albany the bill providing for the commission he announced that he would appoint men to be suggested by the three organizations named. The salary of the members of the commission will be $12,000 a year each, and they cannot be removed from office except on conviction of charges of neglect of duty or incompetence. The commission will have general supervision of the carrying out of the plans for increasing the city's water supply and will have power to condemn property, to select new watersheds, except in the prohibited counties of Suffolk, Putnam and Dutchess, and to carry out the work committed to them will have the spending of $300,000.

The duties of the commission will be so important and exacting that it had been generally understood that the men appointed would be required to give their whole time to it. It was with some surprise, therefore, that the announcement made by the Mayor yesterday was heard, that he had selected men who are identified with interests which they cannot give up for the $12,000 a year job without pecuniary sacrifice.

When J. Edward Simmons was asked after he had been sworn in if his new office would not conflict with his duties at the bank, he replied his inquiries to the Mayor.

Mr. Shaw spoke more frankly. "I have informed the Mayor," he said, "that if the work of the commission will necessitate giving my whole time to it I will resign the presidency of the Hanover company, but the Mayor intimated that so far as he could see there would be no need for me to take that step yet."

Mr. Chadwick said, "Although I am the nominal head of the Chadwick company, I have not been an active worker in the company for seven or eight years and am consequently free to give all my efforts to the work of the commission."

The new commission organized yesterday by appointing Mr. Simmons as chairman and Mr. Chadwick as acting secretary. They will meet on Monday. Under the act the commission is empowered to appoint engineers, a secretary and an office staff and to fix the salaries of these employees. It is thought that they will appoint as their chief engineer John R. Freeman of Providence.

THE FALL OF PORT ARTHUR.

Full of Explosions and Excitement—Show Opens This Afternoon.

The fall of Port Arthur, Luna Park's newest spectacle, had its initial performance before a large audience last night. In spite of several delays due to hitches in the delicate machinery of the vessels in the spectacle the audience was pleased with the show and voted it a sure winner.

The harbor of Port Arthur is a large tank in the corner of Luna Park next door to the shoot the chutes incline. Surrounding the harbor rise the hills and forts of the stronghold in bright paint, the audience sitting on the Tiger's Tail and looking on at the harbor and the Golden Hill. The spectacle starts off with a review of the Japanese fleet, to loud music, there are four or five gray battleships and cruisers and half a dozen black torpedo boats.

The Russian fleet is nowhere to be seen. The press agent said they had one in the beginning, but sunk it in accordance with the absolute facts. The Japanese fleet is about twenty feet long and the torpedo boats fifteen, all draw three feet of water and are roomy enough to allow the mechanic inside to manipulate the electric motors which run the boats.

After the review the torpedo boats steam past a target, discharging torpedoes with deadly effect. The target is then towed back unharmed behind the scenes. A submarine boat also darts about, just showing a conning tower above water, and it also mangles the target. In the blockade of Port Arthur, the Japanese fleet is shown, the Japanese fleet is seen on watch in the harbor.

A merchantman appears loaded with arms and ammunition. The fleet steams around the vessel, discharging gun after gun. Amid the flashes from the Japanese and the bursting shells on the blockade runner the vessel receives a shell in the boiler and blows up.

The finale comes in the bombardment of the fortress. All the Japanese fire at the forts, and shells are seen bursting all over the hills. Amid the battle smoke one after another of the forts blow up. The red glare from burning storehouses illuminates the harbor. Magazines explode. Finally a white flag is run up from the top of Golden Hill, just under the shoot the chutes platform, and the ship cruises steam in to receive the surrender of the stronghold.

The "Fall of Port Arthur" opens for regular business this afternoon and the show will be given every hour.

Every Man Needs His Serge Suit Today

Hot weather has been very tardy this season, but it will get here in a hurry one of these early June mornings, and the comfortable men will be those who have their serge suits ready for the day. We sell them by the thousands, and seldom have one returned, although our guarantee enables any man to bring back a suit that fails to give satisfaction in every respect. Colors are absolutely fast, the serges are thoroughly shrunk before being made up, the tailoring is done in the thorough, careful manner necessary to these thin, cool fabrics.

Notwithstanding the jump that has been made in the cost of serges at the mills, we still have plenty of the thoroughly tested and guaranteed suits to sell at the popular prices.

Men's Sack Suits of blue and black serge, half-lined, at $12. Better grades at $15 and $20.

Blue Serge Sack Suits, half silk-lined, at $25.

Blue Serge Suits, with new double-breasted sack coat; made with broad lapels, deep back vent, fitting slightly to the form, presenting the most graceful suit we have ever shown. Prices, $15, $18 and $20; half silk-lined, at $25 and $30.

We have a remarkably large and handsome collection of Men's Striped Worsted Trousers at $3.50 to $12.

MRS. ROGERS MUST BE HANGED.

Justice Peckham Refuses Writ of Error and Gov. Bell Will Not Interfere.

ALBANY, June 9.—Justice Rufus W. Peckham of the United States Supreme Court today denied an application for a writ of error upon which an appeal to the highest court might be based in the case of Mary Rogers of Vermont, the convicted murderer of her husband.

Attorney Butler argued that there was a Federal question involved from the fact that the Vermont laws provided no means for a retrial of Mrs. Rogers upon new facts discovered evidence. Justice Peckham said that it would be trifling with the administration of the Federal courts to presume to grant a writ of error upon these allegations.

According to Attorney Butler the evidence he seeks to exploit in behalf of his client is the alleged discovery that Rogers had a fracture of the skull which his wife had not possibly have inflicted and that Mrs. Rogers was insane. He says the only hope remaining for Mrs. Rogers now is a further reprieve from the Governor, and this will immediately be applied for. If it is not granted she will be executed under the sentence of the Bennington County Court on June 23, when the present reprieve expires.

MONTPELIER, Vt., June 9.—When Gov. Bell heard of Justice Peckham's action he said:

"My stand in the case is precisely the same today as when I first reprieved Mrs. Rogers. Under the law I was obliged to grant a second reprieve. Now that the writ of error has been denied the law must take its course."

It is evident from this statement that Mrs. Rogers's last hope is gone.

MADE WOMEN PRESS CHARGE.

Mrs. Anthony and Daughter Got $125 Ring Back and Want to Be Merciful.

Mrs. Julia P. Anthony and her daughter Mabel of 287 Broadway appeared in the West Side court yesterday against William McDermott, 19 years old, of 529 West Forty-third street, whom they charged with stealing a diamond ring worth $125. McDermott, who is an express wagon helper, assisted in carrying a trunk into the Anthony house on June 1. The ring, which lay on a bureau, was missed shortly after.

Detective Sergeant Rheaburn of the Central Office says that McDermott confessed and told him he had pawned the ring for 75 cents. It was found where McDermott said he pawned it.

After the ring was recovered Mrs. Anthony did not want to press the charge. She begged Magistrate Pool to let the boy go, but the Magistrate refused. McDermott was held in $1,000 for trial.

BARNARD GIRLS' CLASS DAY.

AND ONLY THIRTEEN COLUMBIA SENIORS SHOWED UP.

The Others Would Have Learned Some Useful Statistics About Hairpins—Also, That One Acquires Nerve in College—Tree Planted in Quadrangle.

Only thirteen of the Columbia seniors accepted the invitation of the Barnard graduating class to attend its class day exercises yesterday afternoon in the Columbia gymnasium. The girls were rather surprised when six lonely ladies in caps and gowns marched to the doors and announced that they were the Columbia seniors. After they had been assigned seats seven others struggled in.

Otherwise the Barnard girls had no fault to find. Each one had invited all of her friends of both sexes, and apparently the majority came. When the gymnasium had filled the graduating class filed in and took seats on the platform. The girls sang the class song and Cecil Innes Dorrian delivered a welcoming address and the class history.

A number of questions had been submitted to the seniors, and Miss Dorrian was entrusted with the duty of publishing the results. Some of the questions and answers follow:

Q. What have you gained most in character during your college life? A. Nerve.

Q. What has been your pleasantest experience during your college life? A. The association with the class of '07 (not Columbia).

Q. What do you think the class will do after graduation? A. Reform mankind and make the world complete.

After these results had been announced the girls arose and sang "Nothing Can Stand a Senior." Then Georgia Grace Bennett, who had been elected the wittiest girl and the biggest jollier, arose and made known these statistics:

Most of the girls are brown eyed. The average number of hairpins used by us is eight. One of us needs as many as twenty, while another gets along with only three. We do not know what else she uses. The average height is 5 feet 3 to 3 inches. There is no average age. Prof. Shattwell is the best lecturer. A majority of the girls prefer the study of zoology. The most popular and most useful Helen Wilkins Coley, best all around and most athletic. Cecil Innes Dorrian, most sensible. The most amusing girl is Helen Beatrice Anderson. Most conscientious, Sarah Fenton Hoyt. Most unsociable, Eleanor Louise Munroe. Deverest, Frances Hope Purdon; most eccentric, Anna Campbell Reilly; neatest, Nina Schultz; best builder, Alice Van Voorst Smith.

Then each member of the graduating class got a gift from Miss Frances Purdon, significant of their various habits and attributes. Trinkets and toys were the order of the day.

Ruth Angeline Reeder presented a flag to the college for the class. A member of the faculty announced the election of the Misses Emily J. Hutchinson, Carrie Kaplan, Lily

Macy's

HERE are two "Straws" in the Macy trade current, showing the drift of that current for Men—two selected at random, never before mentioned in our advertising, and used now merely to illustrate the Macy method:

In the Jewelry department on the main floor we sell, at 33c, a patented safety clutch for scarfpins. It is a wonderfully effective guard against "light-fingered" folk; and it sells everywhere else at 50c.

In the Cigar department on the fifth floor we sell, at 20c, such a standard Cigar as the "Manuel Garcia Perfecto." Smokers will readily confess that this is a 25c-straight Cigar in every other store.

WE select these merely to illustrate. There are hundreds of equally well-known articles interesting to men to be found throughout the store—and they are never mentioned in our advertising.

The same underpricing rules in every department:

In the Clothing section, whether you want made-to-order apparel, high-class, ready-to-wear apparel or a good, serviceable, low-priced outing Suit:

In the Hat store, whether you want a Straw Hat at 99c, such as sells elsewhere for $1.50, or a Hat at $3.49, that you cannot match elsewhere for less than 50c:

In the Furnishing Goods store—where others' $1.50 Shirts sell for 94c, others' $2 Shirts for $1.44, others' $3.50 Shirts for $2.44, others' $1.50 Neckwear for 94c, others' $1 Neckwear for 68c and 75c Neckwear for 44c:

In the Shoe section—where standard quality $3.50 Shoes and Oxfords sell for $3.13, with better grades relatively low-priced.

If you have a half-holiday to-day take a stroll through Macy's. You will likely find it wonderfully interesting.

Leaving the metropolis during the Summer does not necessarily mean leaving Macy's. You may depend upon faithful service from our Mail Order Department. A letter order will be responded to promptly, and as satisfactorily as if you came to the store in person.

BEAT WIRETAPPING GAME.

Police Intervened After Come-Out Had Made One Winning Play.

Ten alleged wiretappers who never tap wires were arrested last night by an equal number of Central Office detectives. The prisoners were all locked up at Police Headquarters.

Russell G. Russell, 40 years old, a produce dealer of 227 First avenue, was approached several days ago by a man who gave him the same old story of having a friend in the Western Union Telegraph company, who could hold back the news of the winners at the racetracks until his friends got down their money in a poolroom. Russell hadn't heard of the time-honored game and bit. His newly found friend took him to the Western Union building at Cortlandt street, where the men met by wire, were shirt-sleeved and it is not known if they were sleeves. He was introduced as the manager of the main office.

"It's all right," he said, "get to a poolroom and get your money down this afternoon. I'll let you know the result in time." Russell and his new friend hustled up to 228 West Thirty-fourth street, where there was a fake poolroom on the parlor floor. The place was fitted up with a telegraph instrument, with wires that didn't go out of the building, and a number of men in the place, all seemingly bent on playing the races.

Russell, on the advice of his new friend, bet $25 on Proper at 2 to 1. Proper won. Russell collected some $68, half of which he gave to the man who put him next to the game. When he left he promised to be around yesterday with $2,800.

Some way or other the game reached the ears of the Detective Bureau. Acting Capt. McCauley would not tell how. He detailed ten detectives to the case. They met Russell by appointment and furnished him with an envelope for the coming year. They posed to contain the $2,800. The detectives and Russell visited the fake poolroom yesterday afternoon. The cops made the race.

The police gathered in all the men in the place. They gave names which the police believe to be fictitious. They say that one who called himself Frank Parker is B 402 in the rogues' gallery.

Four Per Cent. on Savings.

The Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank has announced that it will pay a 4 per cent. interest on deposits for the coming year. This announcement is taken as an indication that the rate of 4 per cent., which a number of the larger savings banks have been paying, will be reduced because of the failure of the Legislature to repeal the tax upon savings bank surpluses. The Greenwald Bank will probably declare a 4 per cent. interest, and it is likely that the Seamen's, Bowery or Bank for Savings will change the rate of 4 per cent.

Greenville, Miss., Bank Closes.

GREENVILLE, Miss., June 9.—The Merchants and Farmers' Bank of this city closed its doors to-day and has been turned over to a receiver. A protested New York draft caused the trouble.
